THE WATER RENT FRAUDS.

LESS THAN $10,000 STOLEN. THE INVESTIGATION NOT COMPLETED-WHAT VARI-

Commissioner Thompson, of the Department of Public Works, said yesterday, when asked if any new discoveries had been made in connection with the wrongful collection of Croton water rents: "I can only say that the investigation is proceeding steadily. Probably only a few days will clapse before the result of the investigation will be made public. Further than this I cannot say at present, I regret the premature publication of the matter because it renders more difficult the procuring of evidence to fasten the guilt on all the persons concerned in the transaction." OUS OFFICIALS SAY.

because it renders more difficult the procuring of evidence to fasten the guilt of all the persons concerned in the transacion."

John H. Chambers, the Water Register, said: "I must refer you to Mr. Thompson for information relative to the amounts taken. This much I can say, that a thorough examination of all the necounts is being made, and the result will be known in a few days. The city can lose nothing in any event."

Mr. Chambers and his assistants are going carefully over the receipts from persons using watermeters since 1879, as it is known that the uniawing collections were confined to this class of water rents. The amounts paid are carefully checked off. Those which have not been paid, or in regard to which there is no record showing that they have been paid, are also noted. Persons who claim that they have pand, while the books do not show it, are required to produce receipts. These will show whether they are genuine or not, and will in part the relied upon to prove collusion on the part of certain persons in the office with those who have collected and retained the whole or part of the water rents. The books for this particular class of renis are kept in Chaef Engineer Newton's bureau, but no one there is authorized to receive any money or give receipts. All moneys are received in the Water Register's Office, and the cashier, or the clerk acting for him, alone is authorized to give a receipt. Every piece of property in the city connected with the Croton mains appears on the books of the department, and each water-meter in use and its location are registered. As the rents are a lien upon the property there is no chance of evading payment of the water rents. The amount of water rents collected for 1882 was about $1,750.000. It is estimated that for the present year the rents will exceed last year by $250.000, making the total receipts about 1882 was about $1,750,000. It is estimated that for the present year the rents will exceed last year by $250,000, making the total receipts about $2,000,000. Up to the present time the lacrease over last year is $243,000. A good part of this increase is due to the use of meters, although the large number of houses erected in the upper part of the city has added considerably to the receipts.

An official, whose knowledge of the matter justice there making the statement said vesterday:

to the receipts.

An official, whose knowledge of the matter justifies him in making the statement, said yesterday:

"This matter has been a good deal exaggerated. The entire amount of wrongful collections will not reach $10,000, and probably will not exceed $7,000. That much is assured. The actual amount thus far discovered is much less than the smaller amount I have named. It has been a series of petty peculations in which more than one person has been concerned. Of course the Department is auxious to fasten this thing on the guilty persons. The fact that the amount is not a larger one is no reason why every effort should not be made to discover and punish all who were concerned in the wrong-doing. I know that energetic efforts are being made in this direction."

Controller Grant said that he did not think the frauds would delay the preparation of the tax books. The statements of the aircars of taxes are being received from the various wards.

FUNERAL OF HUGH J. HASTINGS.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR ONE OF THE PALL-BEARERS BURIAL AT ALBANY.

The funeral of Hugh J. Hastings, the late Editor of The Commercial Advertiser, was held yesterday morning at 9 o'clock, in St. Leo's Roman Catholic Church, which was much too small to contain comfortably those who attended. The body had been watched during the night by the Sisters of the Good Help. It lay in a black cloth-covered coffin, with silver handles and a plate bearing the name and dates of birth and death. Around it were grouped a number of beautiful floral devices, several being from the editors, printers and other employes of The Commercial. Of the relatives there were present, among others, Mrs. Hastings, who was escorted by President Arthur, Miss Katherine Hastings. Mr. and Mrs. Beverley Ward, the four brothers of the dead man, Richard, William, Robert and John; and the five nephews—John S. Hugh, Jr., Schoolcraft, W. H. and John, Jr., Hastings. The employes of The Commercial occupied front pews on the left of the centre aisle. The pall-bearers, beside the President, were Roscoe Conkling, Hugh J. Jewett, Jay Gould, Samuel Sloan, General i homas f. Eckert, Jenkins Van Schaiek, William G. Weed, of Aloany, Isaac W. England, J. Nelson Tappan and John Hoey. John H. Colby, Robert Dony, Fhomss Quinn and Kobert Smith, employés of Mr. Hastings, acted as us.ers.

A low-mass of requiem was celebrated by the Rev. Thomas J. Ducey, pastor of the church, who afterward made a few remarks on the necessity of a life of faith to a life of hope. During the services solos were sung by Señor Colletto and Madaine Salvati and the organ played several selections, including Chopin's "Funeral Match." The body was then taken by the 10:30 train to Albany, accompanied by the relatives, and the interment took place in the Rural Cemetery.

Among those who attended the funeral were: Thomas C. Acton, Algernon S. Sullivan, Andrew D. White, Surrogate Retlins, Jordan L. Mott, S. V. R. Cruger, Postmaster Pearson, Dr. R. A CAREER OF SWINDLING STOPPED. Detective-Sergeants Frink and McGuire yesterday arrested a young woman on a complaint of larceny by trick and device preferred by Joseph H. T. Martin, of the firm of W. H. Lyon & Co., at No. 488 Broadway. The prisoner was taken to Jefferson Market Police Court and remanded in default of $1.000 bail for trial to-morrow morning. Miss Louise Wilkins, aitas Underhill, alias Lyons, alias Walker, alias Watson, is twenty-four years old, of pleasing address and an adept at obtaining money under false pretences. Her mother was a Miss Spofford, but her married pame is Wilkins, and she now lives at No. 232 West Thirty-pinth-st. The young woman has an aunt, Mrs. J. Hall, a dressmaker, living at No. 302 West Fifty-sixth-st. Several years ago the prisoner was married to a Mr. Underhill, a clerk in a Wall-st bank, but she was divorced from him two years ago. Afterward she lived with a man gamed Walker, with whom she quarrelled, and then went home to live for a short time. Detective-Sergeants Frink and McGuire yesterquarrelled, and then went home to live for a short time.

Mrs. Hall, the police say, was formerly wealthy, but suffered a considerable loss by the burning of several ships at the Brooklyn stores last year, after which she opened her dressmaking rooms. Among the friends who assisted her in her trouble, giving both advice and money, was Mr. Martin. The niece, learning of the good friend that Mrs. Hall had found, concluded to extend his charily in her direction. Mr. Martin had loaned Mrs. Hall money frequently. He now began to receive an unusual number of letters purporting to be signed by Mrs. Hall, stating that she was sore pressed and would consider it a great blessing if he would continue his advances. The requests were complied with until a short time ago, when Mr. Martin decided to answer the message in person. When he did so he found that he had been deceived. The request that day was for $25, which was to be sent by a District messenger boy to Thirty-fourth-st. and Eighthave. Detectives learned upon inquiry that the letters had all been sent by Miss Wilkins, who had signed her aunt's name. Eight of them had been received within a month.

A few weeks ago, it is alleged, the young woman swindled a member of the firm of Straiton & Storms out of $100 by pretending that she was a dre smalter to whom his wife owed money, and that she was in danger of being dispossessed. Meeting with success she tried to obtain $50 more from him, but she was arrested. Her aunt secured her release.

It was stated by the detectives that the young

It was stated by the detectives that the young woman is in love with a James Daly, who has been employed on the new Opera House, and that he has compelled her to obtain money for him, receiving all that she got from Mr. Martin. It is believed by the detectives that under different names the woman has obtained more money than is at present known. They have in their possession a brass ring which she sent to Mr. Martin as accurity for a loan of $305.

INEQUALITY IN PAY OF CITY SERVANTS.

During the conference of the Mayor and heads of departments with the State Civil Service Commission on Friday, Controller Grant said that when he entered upon the duties of Controller he was struck with the fact that salaries were so unequal in the Finance Department. He said yesterday that while in the Mayor's office his attention was called to this matter, and on making a closer examination he found that some employes in his department were receiving considerably smaller salaries than others, though their term of service was longer than that of those who were paid more, and their work was as exacting and responsible. This was a condition of things which he thought should be remedied. It would require a good deal of time to do this, else hardship might be worked. As his estimates for the expenses of the department for the coming fiscal year must be ready for the Board of Estimate and Apportionment by October 1 he thought it was doubtful whether he would be able to give the matter sufficient attention to put a re-INEQUALITY IN PAY OF CITY SERVANTS.

form into practice. The matter had also attracted the attention of Mayor Edson. Mr. Grant thought the remedy for the present condition of things was to grade the clerks of the various departments as they are graded in the departments at Washington. A clerk in any grade would then receive a certain salary, the grade determining the amount.

PUGILISTS WHO CAN'T AGREE.

THE REFEREE AGREES TO A DRAW - HOW THE

The number of cigars that were smoked at "Harry" Hill's yesterday afternoon and the quantity of liquid refreshments that were absorbed by the men who assembled to decide upon the Mitchell-Slade prize fight will remain hereafter a problem to all, perhaps, except Hill's bartender. At any rate the atmosphere was blue in the billiard-room, and not a few of the persons present were of the same distinguishing color. The vital question of where the fight should be fought was first discussed below stars, and "Bills" Madden, "Jack" Davis, "Jem" Mace, "Heu" Rice and Charles Mitchell bedged in a table and ordered drinks. Madden and Rice glared at each other over their glasses and picked their teeth in silence. Mitchell told funny stories and Mace made strange faces. Hill descended upon the gathering and suggested the billiard-room as a rehef from the noise of the street, and then the redoubtable "Harry" began:

"Well, gentlemen, we intend to arrange this fight to-day, don't we?"

A chorus in the affirmative.

"Then, Rice, I understand you want to fight your man within 100 miles of New-Orleans?"

"Yes," replied Rice.

"And you," said "Harry," turning to Madden, "are willing to have Mitchell meet Slade in any place, and at any time, except at New-Orleans?"

Madden nodded in assent.

"Well, what are you going to do about it?" inquired Mr. Hill, unconsciously reviving William M. I weed's famous query.

Mr. Rice fingered his watch-guard nervously, looked at Madden sakant, and then said with emphasis: "Saide is willing to fight Mitchell at New-Orleans, according to 'Harry' Hill's decision as referce, and he is going to he uninterested in the conversation. He nubbled the head of his cane.

"The rea-on why I don't want to go to New-Orleans," explained Madden, "is because I have enemies there, and I had enough trouble at the Sullivan-Ryan fight to last me the rest of my life. We have been at great expense in training and I enemies there, and I had enough trouble at the sullivian-Ryan fight to last me the rest of my life. We have been at great expense in training and I am sure the fight will be stopped. We don't want any fizzle—we want to fight. We have had offers of the buil-ring an the City of Mexico and places in Dakota where we would never be interfered with, and I don't see why kice wont stretch a point and choose some other place than New-Orleans. When Harry Hill named that city as the fighting-ground I was away from town and did not agree to it."

"I wont deviate from New-Orleans." said Mr. Rice. A disgusted grunt from Mitchell. "No, I wont," continued Slade's manager, looking up at Mitchell. "Pin not going to be made a d—n fool of, trotting about the country after you fellows, and don't you forget it."

"No one maile a d—n fool of you but yourself," observed Mitchell.
"You're another," retorted Mr. Rice.

"No one hance a unit alone by you're another." retorted Mr. Rice.

"You're dragging too many persons into the discussion," mildly responded Mitchell.

"Look here, gentlemen," began Mr. Hill, "let's get things right. I'm put in an awkward position, and I want to put myself right before the public. I named New-Orleans as a place where a good many lights have been fought, and where none has been stopped, but just now they've got yellow fever down there. If you won't fight at New-Orleans where will you light, Mr. Mitchell?

"Anywheres," was the energetic response.

"And if you won't fight anywhere else than New-Orleans what am I to do, Mr. Slade?"

The Maori shrugged his shoulders.

"Will you leave the question of place to the decision of five sporting men?" asked Mr. Hill.

"No?" exclaimed Mr. Rice, and then the puzzled referee twirled his thumbs. Mr. Mace balanced his walkingstick on the end of his nose and looked wise. Mitchell arose from his chair and lighted a cigar. Then began a long dispute between Madden and Rice in relation to the agreement which had been made between them when the training was stopped in Kansas. And Mr. Hill waxed wroth, and using words which are seldom heard in poissed society, he said that the agreements should never have been made, for neither he nor the principals were consulted. Thereupon Mr. Rice jumped so his feet and rushed against Mace's well-poised cane; the collision nonpinssed him, for he came back and shouted in Mr. Hill's car: "Well, I declare that Slade's money is withdrawn from the stakes. We won't fight."

"Then, gentlemen," said Mr. Hill, turning to

And so the fight between Slade and Mitchell for $5,000 a side was ended. This method of setting a fight, however, did not seem to please Mitchell, for when some one asked what was to be done with Sheriff, "The Prussian," whose backer, Arthur Chambers, has challenged all comers at $1,000 stakes, he whispered to Madden and the latter stepped up to "Harry" Hill and said:

wid: "You may cover the Prussian's stakes with $1,000 "You may cover the rand oried out pathetically, of Mitcheil's money."

Mr. Hill waved his hat and cried out pathetically, "Thank God, we're going to have a light anyway."
The arrangements will be made to-morrow afternoon at "Harry" Hill's, where Madden and Chambers will represent the puglists. The fight will take place within two weeks after the signing

When a Tribung reporter asked him what he thought of Mr. Fox's offer of $5,000 if Mitchell and stade would fight, Mr. Rice said (and there was blood in his eye when he said (t): "If the sheaking little cuss had made the proposal to me I would have wrung his nose."

BRIGHT OUTLOOK OF THE UNIVERSITY.

The University of the City of New-York will open its doors to students on Tuesday morning. Those young med who passed last year within its walis will hardly know the old class-rooms when they enter them. The painter and the carpenter have been at work and tarer is an appearance of newngss which has been foreign to the University for many a day. Not alone have woodwork and walls been painted, but new apparatus has been added to the departments of chemistry, natural philosophy and astronomy, and new cases without number have been built for the reception of geological and botanical specimens. The most noticable change will be found in the Chancellor's room. The dingy walls have disappeared, and now the apartment is spiendid with Venetian red, polished mouldings, dirkibilue friezes, and an elaborately frescoed ceiling. The furniture will remain the same, but, as the Rev. Dr. Hall, the acting chancellor, expressed it to a TRIBUNE reporter, "The room will be more luxurious." And it is due to Dr. Hall that it is so. Previous to the last vacation William A. Wheelock made a present to the University of $5,000, and it is with this money that room 13, where the Dravers, father and soot, taught coemistry, is being reflicted for the students, and a large quantity of valuable apparatus has been added. Professor Albert H. Galiatin will take the late Professor Henry Draper's place. The laboratory will now accommodate twenty students. The chapel has been repainted. The old benches, which have received the cuttings of forty years from the knives of the students, still remain, but putty has covered a multitude of sins. Professor G. W. Coakley has been made appy by a large telescope and an instrument for taking exact observations, which have been added to his department of mathematics, natural philosophy and astronomy, and Professor Benjamin N. Martin, in speaking of the prospects of the University for the approaching academic year, said that he had been greatly encouraged by the number of applic BRIGHT OUTLOOK OF THE UNIVERSITY.

Wife-"Well, Mrs. Brown has been taking Hood's, and it has do er so much good I want to try the same."

Said the Farmer

To a neighbor some time afterward: "I carried it home, and I vow it did her so much good that the first I knew she was feeding the

" Having taken Hood's Samaparilla, I feel it my duty to inform all similarly affected of the benefit I have received. I was taken sick last summer with Dyspepsia and Sore Mouth. I could not eat the first thing without being distressed. I was falling every day. I was just able to more around. I could not take any care of my house or of my children. In this simution I was told of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I got a bottle, and took but half of it before I for the other of the charge. Locationed until I had taken two bottles, when I was felt a change. I continued until I had taken two bottles, when I was felt a change. I continued until I had taken two bottes, when I was a new woman. I could east suything. I could do my work better than ever I did in my life. I never felt better nor looked better than I do at the present time, and I thank I lood's Sarsaparilla for it all. I would advise all those who have never used it to take one bottle and see for themselves what this great blood-purifier will do."—MRS. STR-PHEN S. DINICK, 16 Franklin-st., East Somerville, Mass

CHENEY BROTHERS' AMERICAN SILKS.

I shail open on WEDNESDAY, the 19th, at

NO. 18 EAST 14TH STREET,

NO. 18 EAST 14TH STREET,

for retail and jobbing, a full line of CHENEYS' popular and durable Dress and other silks competiting the Ottoman and Radzunir silks, troa-Grains Gros-Failies, Gros de Suez, Erocades, Surahs, "attins, Florentines, and everything of this character p ounced by these, the littgest Silk Manufacturers in the United States if not in the world. The solid and durable gualities of their silks are iniversally known.

CHENEY BROTHIERS scand prominent among the very few silk Manufacturers who have not succumbed to the temporary profit found in making weighted goods. Their silks still have the good qualities secured by tortry years of homest production. Among twenty eight samples of various promisent suropean and American makes of silks, ranging in value from Si to $7.50 a yard, obtains a from six of the leading retailers of this city some seven years ago by THE SCIENT FIC AMERICAN for the purpose of testing the adulterations, the expert employed, who know the Silks only by the number, reported only one—Oil eXENEY BROTHERS

—as honestly dyed. All the rest were weighted from one quarter to one-half, two American and one European being even more than half dve-suff.

The gains from making weighted Silks are but temporary, for all such deceiver. And for weighted Silks that end draws mear. The ladies are finding out how weighted Silks may be old as early as starched musins; and many are no longer willing to buy a Silk that is halfsoap and dyo-stuff. The day is therefore at hand when

WEIGHTED SILKS MUST GO!

For over ten years I have been handling CHENEYS' SILK's in their whose-ale saferooms, 477 to 481 Broome-st, and know something about these goods. As I shall sell no other Silks but CHENEY BROTILLING, ladles wanting the genuine article will be sure to get it here, without any adurance to buy laterior American or other makes 2s a sub-SAMUEL II, TERRY, 18 East 14th-st., N.
